"Canada To-day," 1921-22

We beg to thank the publishers for a copy of "Canada To-day."

This is the sixth issue of the popular annual published from the offices of "Canada," the London illustrated weekly (110 St. Martin's Lane, W.C. 2), at 2/6.

Its standard of usefulness and attractiveness will be found fully up to that attained in previous years, entitling it to take its place along with its predecessors as the leading standard reference book on the Dominion of Canada.

The story of Canada to-day—its progress, prosperity and opportunities—told in a series of special articles the volume comprising 128 pages. In this way, everybody who desires to know anything regarding Canadian affairs or conditions, can easily, by turning to the index, find out the information he requires. All the important phases of life and work in the Dominion as well as its natural resources, are dealt with. The volume will appeal to those contemplating permanent settlement, touring, or business in Canada—indeed, to everyone having interests of any kind, personal or otherwise, there.

The first section covers such features as Canada's Government, population, climate, products and manufactures. The second, entitled "Life and Work in Canada," deals with agriculture, homesteading, fruit-growing, professional openings, women's work, city life, education, cost of living, wages and hours of labour, etc., and also the various kinds of sport, a synopsis of the big game hunting, shooting and fishing regulations and open seasons in each Province being given.

The "Emigration and Settlement" section is introduced by an article from the pen of Mr. J. Obed Smith F.R.G.S., Superintendent of Emigration for Canada, and useful information is given to the intending emigrant regarding such matters as immigration regulations, free passages, soldiers' settlement, specially conducted parties, and hostels for women immigrants.

Features and conditions in the nine Provinces of Canada are described in detail in special articles, supplemented by lists of the principal cities, field crops and officials, in each case. There is also a specially prepared gazetteer arranged alphabetically, giving a short description of the cities and towns with populations of 1,000 and over. This is followed by an article on the Dominion of Newfoundland which "Ancient Colony" is, of course, not included in the Canadian Confederation.

Much interesting and useful financial and commercial information is given in a further section, the subject dealt with including, companies, Canadian income tax, the chartered banks, trust companies, oil in Northern Canada, export and import trade, and Customs. Particulars are also given regarding the Canadian railways and steamship services, supplemented by tables of distances and fares.

A special feature of "Canada To-day," as usual, is the very large number of excellent illustrations, covering practically every side of life in the Dominion. There are over 100 of these, and also a double-page map.

Sports Committee Meet

The Memorial Sports Committee met at the Green Lantern for lunch at 1 p.m. yesterday when there was a large attendance of members.

Mr. J. A. MacKenzie reported on behalf of the Programme Committee; the report was most satisfactory and was unanimously adopted. Competitors will enter at Mr. MacKenzie's office, and entries will close at noon, March 1st. It was decided to start the programme at 8.30 p.m. The C.C.C. Band will be in attendance. Mr. Dowden then started a drive for prizes for the various events, and in the space of a very few minutes had the list complete, as follows:

Ladies' Hockey—Mr. Ern Churchill.
One Mile Champion—Mr. J. C. Parsons.

College Relay—Mr. W. J. Higgins, M.H.A.

League Relay—Messrs. Perlin, J. Vinicombe and J. G. Higgins.

Boys' Race—Mr. J. J. Lacey.

Waltzing Competition—Messrs. F. O'Brien and Murphy.

Badminton Race—Councillor Dawden.

Backward Race—Mr. C. Hall.

Three Mile Champion—Mr. G. Marshall.

Fug of War—National Sports Committee.

Brigade Relay—Mr. J. A. MacKenzie.

Merchantile and Civil Servants—Mr. H. J. Russell.

Messrs. Ern Goodland and C. Hall kindly undertook to arrange souvenir programmes. It was unanimously decided not to take up a collection at the rink. Padre Nangle expressed himself as delighted with the progress made by the Sports Committee. It is certainly doing its utmost to go over the top and they trust that all their friends will attend on the night of March 2nd to make it a memorable one.

Farmers Discuss Forming A Union

TO MARKET VARIOUS LINES OF PRODUCE

GUELPH, Ont.—With a view to establishment of a provincial co-operative association to handle various lines of farmers' produce, a conference was held at the O. A. C. to-day, following the close of the annual meeting of the Experimental union. A number of short addresses were given by leaders of the various branches of agriculture, which brought forth many suggestions, but nothing of a tangible nature resulted, and for the present the matter was left in abeyance. It is possible, however, that another conference will be called in the near future, after some propaganda work has been done and an organization effected.

E. H. Stonehouse, president of the national dairy council, briefly outlined the objects of the proposed dairy marketing company, which would embrace at least 75 per cent. of the cheese factories of the province. For this, he said, it would be necessary to raise $1,000,000 capital and to engage a high-salaried expert manager, if the project were to be successful. He declared the government was ready to stand behind such a movement, assist in its organization and lend it credit. The capital would be on the basis of at least $100 per share, to be taken by factories pro rata to their output.

Would Start Smaller.

H. B. Cowan, of the United Dairy-men's Co-operative company, outlined some of the difficulties which his concern had encountered during the past few years. W. C. Good, M.P.-elect, of Brantford, questioned the wisdom of commencing on such a large scale as that suggested by Mr. Stonehouse, preferring to start through some such company as the United Dairymen. He doubted the soundness of the "big business" idea, as it meant the extension of government support to a farmers' commercial enterprise.

C. W. Baxter, head of the fruit branch of the department of agriculture, Ottawa, hinted at the formation of a national fruit growers' council, and T. J. Mabony, general manager of the Niagara Growers, Limited, told of the storing of large quantities of grapes in cold storage at Hamilton, which resulted in the growers receiving at least $35 per ton more than the best offer of a month previous, with the buyer making more out of this lot than any other grapes bought last season.

Livestock Marketing

F. S. Fulthorpe, of the United Farmers' Co-operative company, pointed out that there had been considerable elimination of waste and expense in selling livestock in Toronto by co-operative methods. He stated that the U. F. O. had had an increase of 1,102 cars of stock last year on a market that showed a decrease of 17 per cent. from the previous years. Hog production was below par, and Canadian bacon was losing out on the British market, he said, and until the market for hogs was stabilized no improvement could be expected.

A Sight-Seeing Trip To Paris

Alicante, Spain. just now.

To The Editor,
St. John's Newfoundland.

Dear Sir,—Just before leaving Port Union in September last, I was requested by one of your staff, who happened to be there at the time, that, if in the course of my travels, opportunity and inclination should coincide, he would greatly appreciate an article, preferably of some place that would re-call pleasant memories to those with whom it was my privilege to serve during the Great War.

There were few places, I suppose, that held greater attraction for the soldier than Paris. It was his dream during the brief hours of respite from sentry—go, trench digging and fighting, that leave might be granted to visit it; and if that most alluring of cities, held even one half the charm and interest in war times; that it does to-day, it was a dream well worth realizing.

What did I see in Paris? Before answering that question, Sir, I must explain my presence there. Pardon this digression gentle reader, but it is an act of diplomacy that is necessary, in case the "eminent and illustrious founder of the great exponent of the fishermen's rights", should read this article. The part in inverted commas, is taken from the Opposition papers. However, being compelled to stay, because of that bugbear to all travellers, namely, lost luggage, I decided to enjoy the fruits and misfortune to the full, and in my own way, even though the missing trunk contained all those articles of apparel with which modern man disguises himself, with the exception, naturally, of the amount that the customs tailor and climatic conditions, not to mention convention, ordains shall be carried on the person at a given time. As mentioned above, it was in my own way I determined to see Paris, and that was not, by any means, in the ordinary, orthodox, sight-seeing way, but wherever the charms of straightforward boulevards and stately avenues, or the vagaries of delightfully narrow intricate streets lead me.

A part of my time was spent at Cook's, of international repute, where I was clearing up delicate little points in connection with my lost property, and answering questions such as, "Did you notify our man at Naples, Rome, Modane, etc.? Did you see that your trunk was properly locked and sealed? Did you sooth the fevered palm of the frontier porter by the dextrous administration of an efficacious pill known as pourboire? Did you fill out our special form L.B. N.X.Y.Z." etc. etc. etc. and then, "fifty francs please." (I would caution the editor here, to be very careful in printing the name of this organization, as the insertion of a single letter, the eighteenth par example, would give an entirely different meaning, though it would still remain an organization of international repute.) But all things have an end, or come to one, and finally I was free to see Paris.

Leaving the hotel near La Place de l'Opera, just as the lights of the city began, by degrees, to re-place the fading light of day, I walked down le Boulevard des Italiens and branched off into a side street, that had the appearance of being interesting, hoping it would bring me to the Montmartre district, the happy playground of the demi monde. Tragedy too often raises its ugly head there, to blight and destroy, but we are looking at a lighter and brighter side of life

After wandering for some time, an interested spectator of the busy shoppers preparing for to-morrow's festivities, the pangs of hunger recalled me to the need of satisfying the inner man, so entering a nearby cafe and restaurant combined, which looked as if it might be safe for a harmless individual to trust himself, I found a quiet corner and proceeded to study my fellow diners. At one table there were two students with their sweethearts, spending the proverbial last sou with a lordly air. At another table, a similar group, in one of whom I was particularly interested, he was so evidently enjoying the food, so pleased with his companions, their conversation, and his own attempts at wit, even though he tucked the serviette under his chin. There were many others, and one and all were out to enjoy themselves. I have no doubt, that after dinner, le Moulin

OFFERS RESIGNATION

D. A. Fortune, M.P., for Jacques Cartier who has offered his seat to the Hon. Mr. Stewart, of Premier King's Cabinet.

Rouge was their destination, there to dance and laugh until the wee sma' hours began to merge into the larger ones, for this was Montmartre, where a night is turned to day.

Having dined to my satisfaction, I once more strolled on and on through the joyous crowds, losing and finding myself at intervals, entering cafes where the music set one's feet tingling, watching street corner performers, breaking stores with their faces and blowing flaming gasoline from their mouths. Everywhere was excitement and merriment, and almost before I was aware of the passing time, the New Year had dawned.

The old year's past, and so may pass, regret, for chances left unheeded, for deeds that cause a twinge, for words that had been better left unspoken; And only joy remain, because of something well accomplished, Great or small, And whether great or small, who shall be judge.

The New Year's born, radiant with promise, full of hope, And when the new, in turn grows old, as all things must, May we not need to say, "It might have been."

The following day my fancy took another direction, and I walked towards the river, through les Jardins des Tuilleries, across la Place de la Concorde, along l'Avenue des Champs Elysees to l'Arc de Triomphe, where lies the tomb of the unknown soldier emblem of a nation's sacrifice and sorrow. While standing there uncovered, I thought of the forests of crosses, away, to the northward, British and French, and of the myriads of others east and west, of those who came from the four corners of the earth, to die, that France,—no, not France alone,—that liberty and justice, that the ideals and aspirations which raise mankind above the level of the brute creation, might not be trampled under the ruthless feet of materialism, and crushed by the mailed fist of military might. I thought of the blood intermingled in the gigantic struggle against a common enemy, of days and nights of toil and hardship, anguish and travail shared in common, and felt that this land, which we had given of our best, held a place in our hearts, second, only to that of the land which gave us birth.

I should never be forgiven, Sir, by your readers of the gentle sex, were I to omit mentioning the beautiful shops, the works of art, and the latest fashions.

"They are wearing them long my dears," yes really, though it is but yesterday that we had visions of yards of silk stockings, acres or more or less beautiful or puny chests and backs, and numerous fat and flabby, exquisitely rounded, or puny arms as the case may be. Now we really don't know whether the dear creatures have legs, and walk, as we baser creatures do, or whether they merely glide along, without any physical effort on their part, and piquant faces peep out from dainty chiffons and laces, like rose-buds, half open, from their coverings of green. So be prepared for crinolines and powder ed hair in the near future.

The shops are beautiful; marvelous statuary in marble and bronze everywhere, dainty bits of china from Nancy and Sevres, gorgeous hats, ravishing dresses, truly a perfect paradise of art and beauty. It was with mingled joy and regret that I left it all. Joy at the recovery of my lost baggage, regret on leaving the gay capital, gladness for the experience I had, sorrow for having only skimmed the surface, thankfulness for the faculty of appreciation, yet poignantly conscious, that there were countless aspects of life, a thousand works of art, and many, many interesting places, modern and historic, that I had not seen.

With the compliments of the season,

Sincerely,
C. O. MURCELL.

235 Words A Minute

LONDON, Jan.—A typewriting wonder, in the person of Miss Millicent Woodward, has been demonstrating the possibilities of the machine in Wolverhampton people.

This young lady, who claims to be the speediest operator on the keys in Europe, certainly accomplished some wonderful things.

To keep pace with an average

Speaker was pretty easy; a speed of 110 words per minute from a copy was accomplished while holding a conversation with other finger-board ladies; a blindfolded test at dictation produced 125 words per minute, but the limit was the attainment of a speed of 135 words per minute by repeating a short memorized sentence.

The copy was quite coherent and distinct, and free from errors.

Five commercial passengers were carried by the Martinsyde airplane to-day—one to Clarke's Beach, two to Hr. Grace and two from Hr. Grace to this city. Mails and expressage were also carried by the plane.

Rev. Dr. Whalen, of North River, went out from the city to Clarke's Beach. Dr. Arthur Barnes, Minister of Education, and F. C.

Grace, the three going together.

On the return trip from Hr.
Grace Miss Rose Archibald, sister of the Assemblyman, and H. D.
Archibald came to this city. Miss Archibald thus has the honor of being the first commercial passenger to travel by airplane in Newfoundland.

Mail was carried on both trips,

St. Bonaventure's Prize Distribution

The presentation of the French drama "Richelieu" was the feature of St. Bonaventure's Prize Distribution
exercises held at the Casino Theatre yesterday afternoon.

The affair was under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor and His Grace the Archbishop, both of whom were present.
The Governor being attended by Caut.
Hamilton and the Archbishop by Rev.
J. McDermott.

Worship Mayor T. Cook, Rev. Dr. Car-
us, Dr. Blackall, Dr. Burke, Mr.
W. J. Higgins, Superior of St. Patrick's Hall and Holy Cross Schools and Mount Cashel and the Clergy and Christian Brothers.

"Richelieu" is an historical adaptation of the troubles and trials which beset the Court of Louis XIII. The acting, enunciation and deportment of the boys taking part bore splendid tribute to the care and attention given them. Special mention may be made of the splendid impersonations given by Master A. Bown (Cardinal Richelieu), Master A. Larkin (Chera-lieu de Mauprat), Master K. Mc-Grath (Count de Baradas), Master J.
Power (Gaston) and Master E. Martin, trayed their roles in a manner which

Selling H. M. S. Briton

Washington Conference Has Borne Fruit.

The training ship H. M. S. Briton is for sale. The Washington Disarmament Conference has borne fruit! This is the first proof afforded locally that the resolution of the nations to economize in their naval expenditures was really meant.

Tenders for the purchase of the old ship are asked for in an advertisement which appears in the papers today.

Queried by this paper Commander
F. M. Kerr would not say that this meant the end of training ships for Newfoundland so far as the Admiralty was concerned, but stated that the twenty three Admiralty men, including himself, aboard the Briton would return to England as soon as she was sold.

The Prime Minister, Sir Richard Squires, informs us that the Admiralty had ordered the closing down of all admiralty stations around the dominions, and this was part of the same policy.

Another Debate To-night

The subject which will be debated by the Methodist College Literary Institute at to-night's session in the resolution "That women should be admitted to ordination in the Methodist Church."

The affirmative side will be led by Hon. A. W. Mews and Walter Moore;
and the negative by Rev. T. B. Darby and S. R. Penney. An interesting debate is expected.

CURLIANA

To-night, at 7.30, will witness probably the blood game of the season, natives vs. all-comers, or in other words Newfoundland vs. the World.
Keen play is always looked forward to in this match, as each side plays his very best for victory.

The whole Curling Association plays the first day.

The Second Day's Play the first 16 highest scorers.

The Third Day's Play the first highest of the 16 scorers, the winner being declared by the highest scorer of the 5.

This is going to prove a most interesting game, and is looked forward to by all with pleasure. The Cup is won outright.

Who will be the lucky winner of this handsome cup?

The Curlers' Memorial Day amount has already reached the handsome sum of over $3,000.00, and there is still some more to come in.

TRAIN NOTES

No trains are moving today. The Carboneau branch will not be clear until about Saturday. The main line is clear from here to Holyrood, from Tickle Hr. to Millertown Jc., and from Kitty's Brook to Port aux Basques. In the intermediate places it is closed. An express may go out to Millertown Saturday. There is no further word from the Sagona. The Kyla is expected to leave Port aux Basques at eleven to-day for Louisburg.

Bible Class Has Annual Concert

Over 500 attended the annual ten-and concert of the Cathedral Men's Bible Class in the Synod Hall last evening.

At 7 o'clock a dainty supper was served by the lady friends of the class in a manner which gained the admiration of all who partook of it.
Following the supper a delightful concert was held. Canon Jeeves occupied the chair and he expressed the thanks of the Class to the ladies who had served the supper in such a capable manner. A program consisting Trio, and a recitation by H. A. Brown were then rendered in a manner which won laurels for the artists.

During the evening candy was sold.
The total proceeds amounted to a large sum which will be used for the Missions to Seamen with which the Class was affiliated in 1919.

Left Tuesday.—The C.G.M.M. steamer Canadian Sapper was to have left
